Mr. Jonathan Grammer asks, ‘what consideration has there been, reaching out to the business community in Amarillo for funding?’ Ms. Mendoza explains the differences in partnerships and sponsorships with examples in depth. Mr. Kashuba additionally states how the progression of the additional funding approval from the city has been the initial goal after analyzing and generating precise reports on the exact needs of city-owned parks and facilities. Future goals will be to establish a ‘Friends of the Parks’ group that will be able to engage with sponsorships and grants that the city is not permitted to apply for.
 - ii. Mr. Eric Hunter asks, ‘What is the feasibility without fully knowing how many grants, what is the thought on can we actually how much can we actually accomplish financially and put in place? Without knowing which partnerships, we have on board?’ Mr. Kashuba states that with the significant changes made to the department in terms of efficiency, cost analyzation and potential grants, that future execution is much more attainable.
 - iii. Ms. Podzemny asks, ‘if the park is in Canyon ISD is it still within the city of Amarillo city limits?’ Mr. Kashuba confirms. Ms. Podzemny continues the question with ‘so we (Amarillo Parks and Recreation Department) are obligated per ordinance that a park be built within so many miles of said school?' Mr. Kashuba states that most school parks are co-owned with schools.

Mr. Kashuba confirms that Mr. Grammer has a great idea to have create perhaps a dashboard for the public to easily engage with the progression of projects underway as the master plan is executed.
- vi. Mr. Forbis asks, 'how has the engagement with public schools gone, when informed of future to relinquish the partially city-owned school parks, to the district?' Mr. Kashuba states that the conversation has been started with two of the three districts. These conversations have been challenging because of the unclear defining line in the city-owned and school-owned dividing line, with the grandfathered agreements between school districts and the city. Mr. Forbis also asks, 'is there a similar sized city that has also executed a master plan like the one being presented, that the city of Amarillo can reference to their success?' Mr. Kashuba states that it's a challenge to compare to comparable cities, due to the difference in tax percentage. Amarillo has a significantly smaller tax percentage than cities with a comparable population. He suggests that in the future, the park board travels to comparable cities to observe their parks, facilities, events, and their master plan layout.
